REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the prior art does not teach all of the limitations of the claimed invention including:

- In claim 21: employing electrical inductors as the first and second components.
- In claim 22: employing as the projection a first cylindrical projection; employing the first component further having a second cylindrical projection; employing a third component having a non- circular opening; passing the first cylindrical projection of the first component through the non-circular opening of the second component; passing the second cylindrical projection of the first component through the non-circular opening of the third component; and
- In claim 23: employing as the at least two components a center conductor and a load end conductor;
- In claim 24: employing as the first component a center conductor having a first cylindrical projection and an opposite second cylindrical projection; employing as the second component a load end conductor; employing as a third component a line end conductor having a non- circular opening; passing the first cylindrical projection of the center conductor through the non-circular opening of the load end conductor; deforming the first cylindrical projection of the center conductor passing through the non-circular opening of the load end conductor, and deforming the second cylindrical projection of the center conductor passing through the non-circular opening of the line end conductor, in order to attach the center conductor and the line end conductor together;

- In claim 25: employing as the deforming one of a spinning operation and a peening operation; and
- In claim 26: employing as the non-circular opening an elliptical opening.

Accordingly, claims 5, 7, 9-12 and 20-26 are allowed.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
